

Staffs celebrate World Environment Day

The Leather Industry Development Institute (LIDI) staffs celebrated the 42nd at the international level and 21st at the national level world Environmental day.

At the discussion held at the institutes hall Wondimu Kumera, Director Human Resource Directorate of the institute, stated that environment consists several living things and nonliving things such as human, animals, plants , air, sunlight, mines ...etc and all these are interdependent.

As Ato Wondimu says, the problem that caused by imbalance of the environmental is very serious, so that for peoples whose life is based on agriculture like us is seriously harmed. And industries like the leather sector their main raw material comes from agricultural products are also suffered.

So that “all of us should have to work hard to protect our environment” said the director.

This year’s environment day was celebrated under the motto “Every year, everywhere, all of us to stand together for environmental protection”. And a paper that focuses on the motto was presented By Ato Anteneh Muhye and the participants are discussed on it.

After the discussion the staffs was planting different indigenes plants in the institute's compound.
